WE learn from the Saigonnais that Lieut Col. Badens, who was for some time chief of the staff to Admiral Courbet, in Tonquin, has been appointed to the post of Resident General for France in Cambodia. The news of the appointment appears to have caused considerable excitement at Saigon. With out disputing the military qualifications of the officer named, the Saigonnais considers him wanting in the knowledge and experience necessary for the administration and organisation of such a country as Cambodie and consider that the pacification of the new protectorate could be better carried out by a civil than by a military officer.

THE case against James Daley and Robert Carberry, who were charged at the Police Court yesterday with cutting and wounding Jurgen Olson, on the 25th-inst., was this morning further remanded until to-morrow, the evidence not being gone into. Another List of Contributions to the China Fire | man, unemployed seamen, of the name of Fred Clark, was arrested on suspicion yesterday morning. Clark was found with several other beachcombers in a hut Scandal Point, Wanchai, and has been identified by one of Olson's companions as the man who attempted to pick a quarrel with him in Petersen's boarding house shortly before the stabbing affray occurred. Further evidence has been obtained to-day against the second prisoner, Carberry, and will probably be produced to-morrow.

> THE decision in the case of Lebury v. Kennedy, which was given by His Honour Justice Ackroyd this afternoon, will meet with the approval of most residents who have watched the case. We cannot but admire the way by which the Judge has reached the conclusion to which he has come. By the decision the character of the plaintiff is relieved from the insinuations made against it; and the defendant is a the same time delivered from the hardship of paying for damages for which he is not responsible. The owner of the bull is notified by this judgment that any further pushings or tossings of the bull may prove to be a costly affair-which bint, if the bull be a quiet animal, does not mean much. In the present instance the cost falls upon the plaintiff. The judgment is given in full in another column.

Tientsin (From Our Correspondent.)

Tientsin, Oct. 18. The Imperial decree upon naval organization was received here on the 15th inst. It is not long, but is very weighty and explicit. The Northern fleet is to be taken in hand first, and as soon as means are adequate, the Southern fleets are to be subjected to the same reforms. The difficulty with China is that for army and navy reorganizations ahe has no staff of trained men to serve as executive under orders. Officers, cadets, trained seamen, gunners, engineers, schools, direction even, have to be created. All materials are amorphous. Formosa is to be made into agovernment district and separate from the Min-che. The Futse of Fohkien is to be the first Governor. His post in Fokien will be filled by a new appointment. The Chinese Government now understands the political, commercial, and strategio value of the heautiful island, and means will be taken to improve it and secure it. Roads will be made, mining and industry will be encouraged, and forts will be built and garrisoned. Whether it will be possible to improve the harbours I cannot say. The Viceroy Earl Li will be here on the SUPREME COURT. IN SUMMARY JURISDICTION. Before His Howour E. J. Ackroyd, Puisne Judge.)

> Tuesday, Oct. 27. J. LEBURY v. J. KENNEDY .- $1000

JUDGMENT. His Lordship delivered the following judgment this afternoon:-This is an action in which the plaintiff John Lebury, a gunner to the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company. seeks to recover from the defendant. John Le Prince de Kong a donné l'ordre de Kannady, of the Horse Repository, Hongonth has stated that on the 25th August last he went up to the defendant's Horse Repository to see him on business, that on coming away he passed the defendant's brother David Kennedy standing with a whip in his hand at the corner of the road which leads from Garden Road to Head quarter House, that he saw some cows and from the Parade Ground, the cows were on his left hand side and he went past them : he then heard a voice calling out Look out for that bull.' He turned around and. said Will he go for me?' It was David Kennedy who had called out and he replied Look out for him he will." went across the road to get into the Parade was about 3 feet from the railing he saw.

He gave it three pokes with his umbrella on the nose to try and turn it aside, but the tiff, of David Kennedy and the Chinese le Bouton rouge, la Plume de Paon et la buil caught him on the left buttock, tossed him and threw him a yard and a half or two vards i he fell on the stones forming the gutter and was unconscious. Then Mr Kennedy's brother and another man, a European, came to his assistance, and took him to Mr Kennedy. After washing his face and hands, he went to the P. &. O. office and reported himself, then he went home and was in bed or confined to the house for about a week. Such are the two stories and two more contradictory accounts could A cause do la juste intelligence, nous ne l'acarcely be imagined. The place of the accesserons de le remercier, nous porterons cident, the conduct of the plaintiff, or whether plaintiff was struck and tossed by the buil, as well as other details, are all distinctly and unhesitatingly contradicted On one side we have only the evidence of the plaintiff and on the other, the defen-Lauther and his Chinese core-how are the only witnesses. This is much to be regretted and has increased the difficulty which I have had is arriving at a decision on the point. There would be nothing astonishing or improbable in the fact of bull furning round and charging the plaintiff, whilst it appears to me very improbable and extraordinary that the plaintiff should have acted in the manner in which Mr D. Kennedy states he did, for he is represented as having crossed over to the bull, which was in the middle of the cows (20) poked it. continued pocking it and followed it up though the animal increased his pace, defendant's answer to that is that the plaintiff that morning was intoxicated or had such conduct or action comprehensible. nothing in the way of spirits to gave him. Mr Woolley the shipping clerk injuries had been caused solely by the s.m. and that he was perfectly sober. Mrs. tiff had sustained only a fall would Thomas v. Morgan, 2 C. M. & R. 496; Kennedy says, that when she first saw he have used the words attributed to him. Hartley v. Harrimad I B & Ald. 620; then quite suber. That she had often seen him intoxicated at her place when he came about the manure. Dr Young, who saw the plaintiff after the accident says he was very excited, spoke incoherently, used very strong language and smelt of whiskey. The impression of witness was that he was under the influence of liquor, not drunk. His gait was unstoady; the witness was not surprised at this because his impression influence of liquor. Witness afterwards ciled with that given by the plaintiff by said a glass of whiskey and milk taken 10 their not having actually seen, a though minutes before he saw plaintiff would they think they did, what took place when say that that day he had had a drink David Kennedy says Mr Lebury struck him as being intoxicated for he said to him Hello al where are you going' and witness had never spoken to him before. He appeared excited and was walking very unsteadily; he ran against witness several times going across the bridge but he did . notice any smell of liquor about him. Mrs 5.61 Kennedy says that plaintiff that morning drank nearly & a bottle of brandy but no 7.04 whiskey. Mr Osborne, clerk at the P. 14.09 O. Office, who saw the plaintiff at about 1 says he was sober; he did not appear excited; was quiet but rather shakish. Mr Woolley, who was recalled by me, says that he sees plaintiff every day and at all hours, that his hours are very irregular, and he is liable to be called up at any hour on the arrival of a P. & O. steamer, and is expected to board them before they come in. In the case of the mail he has to be aboard at Green Island; that he has never heard any complaint against him and he is perfectly certain that if plaintiff had been often drunk he would have known of it, Against impressions and appearances given witnesses more or less interested I have the positive evidence of Mr Osborne that the plaintiff was sober when he came from the Repository, and after the evidence of Mr Woolley it would take better and more satisfactory evidence than that which the defendant has been able to produce, to lead me to the conclusion that a man who has for many years borne a good character ing as to be have in the manner in which he at this conclusion but the independent avioccupied a responsible position for 17 years without any complaint against him and who has the character for sobriety which Mr Woolley has given him, has earned a reputation of which he cannot lightly be deprived, and he has acquired the right to ask that before he is branded as a drunkard a bull belonging to the defendant coming some impartial; satisfactory, and dainterested evidence be produced against him which will clearly outweigh the presumption raised by years of sobriety and good conduct. I am therefore of opinion that the plaintiff was not intoxicated on that morning, and therefore that it is most improbable

that he behaved in the way in which David

Kennedy says he did. I will now consider what caused the injuries received by plaintiff. Were they caused by the bull toosing. the plaintiff, or were they the result of a fail? Besides the statements of the plainboy, we have no direct evidence of the occorrence, and the only light thrown on the subject is that indirectly given by Dr Hartigan and by Dr Young. Plaintiff cays he was struck and tossed by the bull. Defendant says he fell when the bull turned round and that the bull did not touch him. Dr Young saw him immediate y after the accident. From his evidence it seems clear. that he was examining him for injuries received not from a fall but from a bull, forhe examined his ribs, asked him to take a long inspiration and he said he examined him to know if any bones were broken. He the injuries he saw, and he says that during the only question raised was whose fault it Was. The plaintiff at that time said he had been struck by the bull, and as he made light of the matter and thought he had only une traduction certifica de la dépèche du la far as the entrance to the Reposi- plaintiff at about 4 p.m. on the day of the Prince pour que vous puissiz joutifier de tory. This mark or dent on the coat seems to have particularly attracted Dr Hartigan's attention. but if the defendan's account of the accident be accepted it cannot be explained. it could not possibly have happened. On two important points, viz the state of plaintiff that morning and the cause of the injuries I find that on the first point the defendant has been directly contradicted and that the indirect evidence which has been given on the other point is in favour of the plaintiffs pretensions. But it may be said there are the declarations of the defendant. of Mrs Kennedy, and of Dr. Young that plaintiff admitted it was his own fault as he had touched the bull. This evidence is David Kennedy who is an assistant not satisfactory. It must be remembered to the defendant and in his absence that all the parties treated the matter very the manager, of the repository, and and one of them says they did not speak or states was made use of by the defendthink about it till the plaintiff's letter was ant himself. Dr Young speaks of conversations and a great deal of talking whilst Mrs Kennedy says there were only a very few words. In answer to me said, she thought he was too excited to say anything. There was very little conversation if any. The defendant says he never asked how it had happened nor was he been drinking to an extent that rendered curious to know, yet we find him putting to the plaintiff the question what is the I will therefore briefly review the evidence | matter with your facel' or, 'what have at to the plaintiff's sobriety on the day in you done to your face ? can easily understand the plaintiff saying he was not. I have therefore arrived at the conclusion after a very careful examination of the evidence that the plaintiff's account of the occurrence is the true one and that the injuries he sustained were caused by his being struck by the defendant's bull. It is needless to say that it has not been without difficulty or without some doubts that I have arrived stated to have done.
